EUROPE ENGULFED IN WAR

France, Great Britain, Servia and Russia Pitted Against Austria-Hungary and Germany

Not Only All Europe But All the Eastern Continent Seems Embroiled. This Government Taking Care of Americans Sojourning Across the Waters

The hostilities across the water involves France, Britain, Servia and Russia in war against Germany and Austria-Hungary with a possibility of other smaller nations taking sides. The above mentioned countries are the largest and best equipped countries in the Eastern Continent for war and it is hardly thought the smaller states can prevent devastation and plunder even if neutral and that the best plan is to take sides with the country promising fairest treatment at their hands. Japan seems to be waiting for orders and of course that would entangle China, which will start the flame in Asia. India would be governed by Britain and the influence of the great kingdom would be felt everywhere.

The United States Government has taken measures to transport the thousands of American tourists in Europe to neutral territory. Outside of this anxiety of the American nation no concern need be felt. The general war will no doubt make prices soar in this country and as a result wheat has taken a considerable jump already.

A financial stringency by the stock exchanges closing doors will be met by the new Currency Law by which the United States Treasury may extend credit to banks in millions if necessary. The President advises the people to remain cool and calm and suggests that this country will largely profit by the foreign troubles if we lay plans accordingly.

Bedford County W. O. T. U. Activities

Despite high mercury registration Bedford County W. O. T. U. has been keeping pace with the wheels of reform during the early spring and summer months, her efforts being attended by most encouraging results.

Following shortly the live county convention held in Bedford June 2 and 3, the most successful institute yet conducted by the County Union, was held at Hopewell July 24 in the Methodist Church. There were two day sessions.

A large delegation of county workers went by train and were royally received by local Union members, who had anticipated all needs for the occasion.

At the noon hour the church basement was converted into a veritable banquet hall and an elaborate luncheon served.

Two county executive meetings were held during the day, resulting in a decision to conduct another institute at Rainsburg in September.

Practical subjects on General Department work were discussed by various county workers; A Model W. O. T. U. Meeting, National S. T. I. and Anti-Narcotic Charts, and a Union paper demonstration were interesting program numbers.

A stirring address on Local Option was delivered in the afternoon by Rev. Willard, pastor of the Hopewell Methodist Church.

As a result of the institute seventeen new members were added to the Hopewell Union, which organization has taken on new life.

Eternal vigilance in the making of prohibition sentiment by educational means until the day of final victory in State and Nation shall record us as "A Saloonless Nation," is the avowed purpose of the Bedford County Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

L. D. Shuck,
County President.

Mr. and Mrs. William McCavitt have returned to Defiance after an absence of several days and brought with them several of their friends.

Road Supervisor Samuel Winter did a commendable act when he cleaned the ditches along the street in Defiance and filled up some of the low places in the road bed. A good top dressing would improve the road from Riddlesburg to Coaldale Borough still more.

GOOD ROADS AS

CROP PRODUCERS

Government Studies Show How the Agricultural Output of a County Depends Upon its Highroads.

That an improved road will increase vastly the productivity of the area through which it runs has now been satisfactorily demonstrated by studies conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture in Virginia. Conditions in Spotsylvania County were investigated with particular care, and the results have proved surprising. In 1909 the county voted $100,000 to improve 40 miles of roads. Two years after the completion of this work the railroad took away in 12 months from Fredericksburg, the county seat, 71,000 tons of agricultural and forest products hauled over the highways to that town. Before the improvement of the roads this total was only 49,000 tons annually; in other words, the quantity of the county's produce had risen more than 45 per cent. Still more interesting, however, is the increase shown in the quantity of the dairy products. In 1909 these amounted to 114,815 pounds, in 1911 to 273,028 pounds, an increase of practically 140 per cent. In two years. In the same time shipments of wheat had increased 59 per cent., tobacco 31 per cent., and lumber and other forest products 48 per cent.

In addition to this increase in quantity the cost of hauling each ton of produce was materially reduced. In other words, the farmers not only produce more, but produce more cheaply, for the cost of transportation to market is of course an important factor in the cost of production. From this point of view, it is estimated that the $100,000 spent in improving the roads in Spotsylvania County saved the farmers of that county $41,000 a year.

In the past two years the traffic studies of the Federal experts show that approximately an average of 65,000 tons of outgoing products were hauled over the improved roads in the county an average distance of 8 miles, or a total of 520,000 "ton-miles." Before the roads were improved it was estimated that the average cost of hauling was 20 cents a "ton-mile," after the improvement this fell to 12 cents a "ton-mile," or a saving of 8 cents. A saving of 8 cents per mile on 520,000 "ton-miles" is $41,000 a year. The county's investment of $100,000 in other words returns a dividend of 40 per cent. annually.

Because this saving, in cases of this character, does not take the form of cash put directly into the farmer's pocket there is a widespread tendency to believe that it is fictitious profit, while as a matter of fact it is just as real a source of profit as an increase in the price of wheat.

In Dinwiddie County, Va., for example, where peanuts are one of the staple crops, the average load for two mules on a main road was about 1,000 pounds before the road was improved. After its improvement the average load was found to be 2,000 pounds, and the time consumed in hauling the larger load to market was much reduced. In other words, one man with a wagon and two mules could do more than twice as much work with the improved road than with an unimproved road. This is the explanation of the extraordinary rise in the total output of agricultural products in a county with a good road system.

Silk Business Booms at York

York, Pa., July 27.—Officials of the Pennsylvania Textile Company, which operate the Diamond, York and Monarch silk mills, in this city, say that the business of the company has increased to such an extent within the last year that preparations are now being made for the doubling of the capacity of the local plants and the employment of a night force at the Diamond mill, where the raw silk is refined for the weavers of the other two mills.

Considerable new machinery will be installed in all of the mills and the power for the operation of the Diamond mill be furnished by electricity instead of steam.

Stomach Troubles Quickly Cured

People go on suffering from little stomach troubles for years, and imagine they have a serious disease. They over-eat or over-drink and force on the stomach a lot of extra work, but they never think that the stomach needs extra help to do the extra work.

If these people would take TONOLINE Tablets regularly they would be a great big help to the stomach in its strain of over-work. No matter what you eat or drink TONOLINE tabs sweeten your sour stomach and stop gas belching in five minutes. The heaviness disappears, and the stomach is greatly aided in its work of digestion.

TONOLINE Tablets not only promptly relieve all distress, but if taken regularly will absolutely cure indigestion by building up the flabby, overworked walls of the stomach and make them strong enough to digest the most hearty meal. $1 for a 50 days' treatment. Mailed by American Proprietary Co., Boston, Mass.—Adv. July 31, 4t.

Who Can Doubt Sworn Testimony of Honest Citizens

Some time ago I began the use of your Swamp-Root with the most remarkable results. For years I was almost a wreck and was a great sufferer. The doctors who treated me made me believe that my great sufferings were due to female trouble. I was so bad at times I would faint away and had sinking spells. Finally a new doctor was called in and he said that I had kidney trouble and gave me medicine, of which I took several bottles. I obtained some relief from this but I was getting weaker all the time; I could not sleep and suffered so much pain that my husband and children had to lift me in and out of bed. After this time two friends sent me word to try Swamp-Root, which I did, and I am glad to state that the first dose gave me great relief. After taking the third dose I was helped into bed and slept half of the night.

I took several bottles of Swamp-Root and I feel that I owe my life to this wonderful remedy. The two family doctors said that I could not live three months. I would have to be helped in and out of bed ten to twenty times every night. After taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root for two days I was entirely free from getting up and could sleep soundly.

MRS. D. E. HILMAN, Tunnetton, W. Va. Personally appeared before me, this 11th day of September, 1909, Mrs. D. E. Hilman, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

NEW RAILROAD BRANCH

Belief is That Much Coal will be Hauled East via Bedford County.

Cairnbrook, July 31.—When the new coal operations in and about this section are once working their full capacity, can the traffic be handled on the South Fork branch?

This is an interesting question which business men in this section have been discussing for some time.

Traffic will be almost 100 per cent. heavier when all the new mines are in operation. Will the Pennsylvania Railroad attempt to handle the great shipments of mine product over the branch?

Many men advance the theory that the Pennsylv is only waiting for a little more development on the part of the coal companies for the opening of a new branch road, which will run down from this field into Bedford County, to connect with the Pennsylv division there and to run thence east through the county via Hollidaysburg and Huntingdon on to the eastern part of the State. This would give the Pennsylv a road which could be used in case of a serious tie-up on the main line and would also take a great load off the main line if it were used for some of the eastern freight traffic regularly. This is the most likely solution, local men declare, and they are looking for developments in the not far distant future.

The August number of Sports Afield has so many features of unique interest that every sportsman in the country will enjoy reading it from title page to back cover. Teaching Willie His Job is an account of a young officer's heroism, told by a veteran of our Philippine wars; Morgan's Christening is a capital story of sport in the Scottish Highlands; then comes one of Captain Ridgway's inimitable sea yarns, which is followed by a description of a fishing trip into the rugged mountain country of Western Wyoming. Sojourning in the Wilderness tells of the unique customs of the natives and the fine shooting and fishing to be had in Newfoundland; while Morris Rice's dissertation on the beauties of summer-time, as seen in the Cascade Mountains of Oregon, fairly thrills and gurgles with the wild life of the woods and waters. Further on, besides many excellent articles of a fishing nature, we have an Oklahoma Duck Hunt, Squirrels in Illinois, A British Columbia Deer Hunt, Some Queer Animal Traits, Northwestern Field Notes and In the Rainy Lake Country. These, with several humorous sketches, complete an unusually good number. Your newsdealer can supply you; if not, send 15 cents to Sports Afield, 542 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

Extracts From President Wilson's Speech in Philadelphia

"The Declaration of Independence does not mean anything to us merely in its general statements unless we can append to it a similarly specific body of particulars as to what we consider our liberty to consist of."

"These words advocating the modernization of the Declaration of Independence by applying its principles to the business, the politics and the foreign policies of America were used by President Wilson in his July 4 address in Independence Square, Philadelphia."

"Liberty does not consist in mere general declarations as to the rights of man," he said. "It consists in the translation of those declarations into definite action."

"Therefore, standing here, where the declaration was adopted, reading its businesslike sentences, we ought to ask ourselves what is there in it for us?"

"There is nothing in it for us, unless we can translate it into terms of our own condition, and of our own lives."

The President defended his position on the repeal of the Panama Canal tolls act by saying, "The treaty may have been a mistake, but its meaning was unmistakable. When I have made a promise as a man I try to keep it. The most honorable and distinguished nation in the world is the nation that can keep its promises to its own hurt. I want to say parenthetically that I do not think anybody was hurt." Touching upon the situation in Mexico, the President said:

"So if American enterprise in foreign countries particularly in those foreign countries which are not strong enough to resist us, takes the shape of imposing upon and exploiting the mass of the people in that country, it ought to be put to a stop, not encouraged."

"I am willing to get anything for an American that money can buy, except the rights of other men."

"I will not help any man buy a power he should not exercise over his fellow being."

"You know what a big question there is in Mexico. Eighty-five per cent. of the Mexican people have never been allowed to have a look-in in regard to their government and the rights which have been exercised by the other 15 per cent. Do you suppose that circumstance is not sometimes in my thought?"

"I know the American people have a heart that will beat just as strong for those millions in Mexico as it will beat for any other millions anywhere else in the world, and when they once know what is at stake in Mexico they will know what ought to be done in Mexico."

You hear a great deal stated about the property loss in Mexico and I deplore it with all my heart. Upon the conclusion of the present disturbed condition in Mexico undoubtedly those who have lost properties ought to be compensated.

"Man's individual rights have met with many deplorable circumstances. But back of it all is the struggle of the people, and while we think of the one in the foreground, let us not forget the other in the background."

In conclusion President Wilson said: "And my dream is this, that as the years go on and the world knows more and more of America, it also will bring out this fountain of youth and renewal; that it will also turn to America for those moral inspirations that lie at the base of human freedom; that it will never fear America unless it finds itself engaged in some enterprise inconsistent with the rights of humanity; that America will come to that day when all shall know she puts human rights above all other rights, and that her flag is the flag not only of America, but the flag of humanity."

A Woman's Charm

Beautiful hair, fluffy, lustrous, abundant and free from dandruff, is one of woman's greatest charms—it's her main delight—yet many who would be most attractive but for their streaked, thin and lifeless hair, think there is no remedy and that pretty hair is a gift of nature. Beautiful hair is really a matter of care and attention. Parisian Sage, when rubbed into the scalp and applied to the hair, will work wonders—you will be surprised and delighted with the first application—not only will the hair appear abundant, soft, fluffy, radiant with life, but really doubly beautiful.

Parisian Sage supplies hair and scalp needs. It surely removes dandruff with one application and cleanses the hair of all dirt and excessive oil. It is an inexpensive, scientific tonic, and contains nothing to injure the hair or scalp. It can be secured from F. W. Jordan, Jr., or at any drug store.—Adv. Aug. 6, 2t.

Ex-President Roosevelt does not like the foreign policy of the administration—that may be one reason why the people like it.

HOW TO GET STRENGTH

after any sickness is purely a matter of nourishment, whether the attack was an ordinary cold or severe illness; the weakened forces cannot repulse disease germs, and this is why a relapse is so often fatal or why chronic weakness often follows sickness."

Restoring strength to millions of people for forty years has proven the real need for taking Scott's Emulsion after any sickness; nothing equals it—nothing compares with it. Its pure, medicinal nourishment, free from alcohol or opiates, promptly creates rich blood, strengthens the nerves and lungs to avert tuberculosis.

DUST

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D.

The hot, dry winds of August edging through the city streets and along the country roads will carry everywhere clouds of dust. It is the pet abomination of housewives and their instinctive dislike is well founded, for in the city streets each tiny particle that is blown about may be a raft which bears the minute disease producing organisms which we call germs.

The means by which many of our contagious diseases are transmitted have been discovered to be through personal contact or through insects which carry the disease germs from the sick to the well. While the ancient theory that plagues were transmitted by the air has been disproved by the investigations of modern science, a dust laden atmosphere may be responsible for spreading certain infections. Experiments have shown that some of the germs of communicable disease die under brief exposure to the sun's rays. Others are less susceptible and thrive for a certain length of time amid the tiny particles of dust. The germs of tetanus or lockjaw are found in roads and about stables, and if the tiny particles of dust carrying these germs are introduced into a wound, tetanus is apt to result.

In the sputum of a sufferer from tuberculosis, in the dust of the streets or sidewalks we often find the tubercle bacillus, the germ responsible for consumption.

We have reason to believe that the germs of smallpox and possibly pneumonia may also be transmitted in this way.

Dry sweepings of the streets with its accompanying clouds of more or less infected dust, and the dry sweepings of buildings may be a possible source of disease infection. In many of the European and in some American cities the streets are washed every day. This is a sanitary measure of no little importance and should be followed wherever possible. Dry sweeping and dusting with the old fashioned duster should be abolished.

Farmers, mechanics, railroaders, laborers, rely on Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil. Fine for cuts, burns, bruises. Should be kept in every home, 25c and 50c.—Adv.

Is the Post-Card Fad Dying Out?

Every once in a while one sees a newspaper note to the effect that the post-card fad is going by. Yet wherever there are tourists this summer, there seems to be the same old throng like flies around the picture card counter.

Probably the use of silly motto cards will prove to be but a passing craze. Even people of superficial intelligence get tired of reminding their friends by mail to "Do it now," and other equally sensible exhortations. Some other equally ephemeral form of exchanging persiflage will be found. Also many of the cards verge on the coarse and indecent. The exchange of this kind of pleasantries will in time seem tiresome even to dull minds.

But the picture card illustrating scenery or points of interest is never likely to die out. It has made quite a little saving to the traveler looking for souvenirs. Formerly you had to buy photographs to illustrate a vacation outing, for about 25 cents each. The next step was a book of photographic reproductions, that might sell for 25 to 50 cents apiece. The post-card craze has enabled people to carry home a pretty set of souvenirs of their travels for a few nickels.

Also the picture cards appeal to the modern inability to write letters. No matter how much the social philosopher may deplore it, the epistolary habit is dying out. A friendship can not be very vital if the only thing to keep it alive is a half dozen words of greeting and the exchange of glimpses of summer resort scenery. But the picture card habit gives a ready relief from the labors of the pen and the writing desk, and as such it is and will be popular.

The post-card message seems like a pretty shabby substitute for the intimate story of life, covering six or eight closely written pages, which your friends used to send you. Times have changed, people are more on the move. The post-card messages seem to fit into the crevices of time left in our hurried days.

Up to the minute etiquette for prisoners about to be hung is to tender their services in the erection of the scaffold.

Summer Advertising

A careful study of the advertising in the big metropolitan papers shows that a great deal of costly publicity work is done in the summer. The big department stores do not quit in July and August. Their sales may not be quite up to the level of spring or fall. All the more reason, according to their philosophy, why they should push for trade.

They argue that the profitable store is the one that is busy all the year around at the same level. The advertising that helps keep their trade normal in summer is really more profitable than the advertising that brings in more trade at a time when people are naturally buying freely.

The advertising men who handle this big store work are good guides for the smaller merchants to follow. They have carefully analyzed the various theories of advertising. If they believe it pays to advertise largely in summer, it will pay for their competitors throughout retail trade.

In smaller cities, there is some little tendency for advertising to drop in summer. It is done on the theory that trade tends to drop at that time. It is about as sensible as if a farmer should refuse to feed his horse because the beast was a little more tired than usual. It is when the animal flags that the farmer sees that he is in need of the best grain.

If trade flags in summer, put the tonics of advertising into it!

Merchants may fear a drop in trade in summer, but one surmises that it is apt to be less than they anticipate. Of course forehanded people with plenty of money stocked up largely with summer goods some time ago. But many cautious people have waited until now for bargains. Many people are away, but many strangers are in this vicinity and disposed to buy if their trade is solicited.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS

Politics will not suffer by woman's entrance into it. If the political world has grown more pure in spite of the evil influences that have operated to debauch it, it will not be polluted by the presence and participation of woman. And may that discernment which has through the ages enabled her to quickly grasp great truths—made her "the last at the cross and the first at the sepulchre"—so direct her in the discharge of her political duties as to add new glories to her and through her still further bless our race.—W. CONTRACTS PLACED FOR STATE ROADS

Seventeen Miles of Highway to be Improved, Counties Sharing the Cost, but Some Awards Are Withheld.

Harrisburg, July 21.—E. M. Bigelow, State Highway Commissioner, today made awards and considered bids for the construction of 17 miles of State-aided highways.

As an example of what it will take to place the State's roads in good condition, the first contract for one mile of highway in Bristol Township, Berks County, may be taken. The highest bid, that of W. C. Evans, Ambler, was $24,876.05 (warrenite) or at the rate of about $4.70 a foot, and the lowest was the J. F. Shanley Company, Philadelphia, $16,525.87 (asphaltic bituminous macadam). This is a little more than $2.90 a foot, showing that even when the lowest bidder's estimate is considered, good roads come high.

The mean, or average estimate on this work by all bidders was approximately $20,000, showing that, according to the contractors, the work required by 9,000 miles of road in need of improvement would cost, in round figures, $180,000,000.

Average $18,000 a Mile

The total amount of awards is $226,000, in round figures, but not for 17 miles of road, as some of the awards were held up. The average price is above $18,000 a mile, or about $1.75 a square yard, the price paid by the City of Harrisburg, it is said, for sheeted asphalt.

This average, for which the State and the various communities divide the cost, is somewhat in excess of the work which is done by the State alone. The average for State highway work, strictly speaking, is "only" about $14,000 a mile.—F. J. P. in Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Why Self-Respecting Citizens are Driven From the Republican Party.

"The great trouble with the leaders in our party today is that they don't appreciate that by slipping a small joker like this in a bill which will give them a few thousand votes in the big cities, it drives from them the support of men who want to be Republicans; who are honest; who look on their party with pride and who want to go along with their party, but they are driven away with the nonsensical farce of narrow and foolish selfishness of the political leaders of that party."—From speech of Hon. John R. K. Scott, Republican Member from the City of Philadelphia, in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, June 25, 1913. (Legislative Journal, page 5023.)

Lincoln Highway Notes

Another pair of Lincoln Highway pennants will be seen on Broadway in the near future, where they are beginning to be an every-day sight. The National Association at Detroit has just received from Dr. Frank Crane, the noted editorial writer of the New York Globe, a request that they forward him a pair of Lincoln Highway pennants which he can carry on his car as an additional indication of his approval of the great road.

Lincoln Highway Headquarters recently received through Consul-at-large H. C. Ostermann from Canton, O., a contribution of twenty-five dollars from Mrs. Mary E. Barber, who is a sister-in-law of the late President McKinley. The people of Canton are working hard for the necessary funds to insure a Canton mile in the West. Canton, O., is a point of greatest sentimental interest upon the Lincoln Highway, being the resting place of our last martyred President.

The land owners of Perry Township, Ashland County, O., recently appeared before the county commissioners, accompanied by the trustees of the township, and presented a petition signed by over forty owners of property on the Lincoln Highway, for the immediate improvement of the highway in accordance with the provisions of the state aid plan.

An old bus which has been doing service in Brooklyn for the past 35 years and which was previously used to run between the Centennial Exposition to the city hall in Philadelphia in '76, being at that time drawn by ten horses, has been modernized by the addition of a tractor. It will be sent over the Lincoln Highway from New York to San Francisco to the Panama-Pacific Exposition. In spite of its great age, this old vehicle is remarkably well kept.

John M. Studebaker, head of the Studebaker Corporation at South Bend, and the last of the five remarkable Studebaker brothers, will erect a tablet on Pleasant Ridge, five miles east of Ashland, O., on the Lincoln Highway to indicate the spot where the original Studebaker shop once stood.

Boone and Story Counties in Iowa spent nearly forty thousand dollars last year in improvements on the Lincoln Highway. This summer, Greene and Carroll Counties, adjoining the two previously mentioned, intend to expend an additional forty thousand dollars for the same use, and by this fall there should be over one hundred connecting miles of Lincoln Highway in Iowa in shape for the permanent surface.

Factory and Household Economies

The romance of waste products is a veritable El Dorado. Great fortunes have been made from materials supposed to be valueless. The first annual dinner of the National Association of Waste Material Dealers recently held, represented a business with a total volume of $700,000,000. The story of coal tar is a bonanza by itself. Formerly the black, viscid liquid made in distilling gas was considered not merely good for nothing, but it was an actual expense and irritation. Now fortunes are made turning it into naphtha, pitch, creosote, paraffine, etc.

But while such splendid economies have been made in industrial plants, the average household has lost many arts by which waste was once utilized. People brought up by grandfathers and grandmothers of an economical turn of mind, will recall many thrifty little habits.

Making soap from grease was a traditional employment in many families. Now this toilsome task is known to but few housewives. Many families for a long time economized matches by making lamp-lighters. Long strips of paper were twisted into long slender sticks, that would hold a flame much longer than any kind of match.

How many families today have thrifty dickerings as of yore with the rag man? The housewife who swapped off carefully sorted white and colored rags for the spoil from the peddler's cart, used to be quick at a bargain. Another economy was the careful saving of every bit of twine, which was stored in the "string box." No one bought any balls of twine then.

Such little economies strike a great many people as stingy today. Probably some of them took too much time to be worth while. But many fortunes were founded in just such patient little accumulations.

Wearied from being humbugged by fake flesh reducers, a correspondent writes us to recommend an infallible remedy. Stop eating.

We've clean forgotten the weather man in the excitement over the way.

Chicago claims to be the cleanest of the large cities of the United States. Not so! We are it!

REPUBLICAN LEADERS BETRAYED THE PEOPLE

Philadelphia Republican Legislator Confessed Delinquencies of His Party.

"Never had a party or party leaders such a chance as was afforded the Republican party and our present leaders in this last Legislature. * * * We had but to redeem ourselves before our own State, and we had this opportunity at hand with the Legislature then about to convene. * * * Instead of embracing the opportunity thus afforded them, the leaders, with but one exception, resisted to the last day of the Legislature before they conceded even the State Wide Primary, and they permitted the destruction of the Child Labor and the Workmen's Compensation acts and the mutilation of the Female Labor act."—Public statement of John R. K. Scott, Republican Member of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, Session of 1913.

Shoppers Who Are Not Shoppers Penny savers are dollar raisers. People who save the pennies have the dollars.

But to have the dollars you must save the pennies, and to save the pennies you must know how to shop. Some shoppers are not shoppers. They are just spenders.

Money comes easy and goes easier. They make plenty of money, yet live from hand to mouth. Some times the hand does not reach the mouth.

Their pockets are large, but have no bottoms. Sometimes the money does not reach their pockets at all. It is spent before it is made.

They don't know how to shop, how to make a dollar buy a hundred cents worth of goods. They know nothing of what they are getting until after they get it.

There is one great remedy for this evil—careful shopping.

But careful shopping is a problem to some people. They begin at the end and quit before they reach the beginning.

They should turn to the local paper. It is the shopper's best friend. It faithfully portrays the enterprise of the community, lists in its advertising columns the offerings of live merchants, and blazes the path to the stores of best values.

It gives them shopping information which otherwise it would take time to acquire, and much which often they would never know.

As a commercial encyclopedia it is the first step to economical shopping, for when a store has offerings of especial value they are sure to be found in the paper.

To shop economically they should study the advertisements with care—every one of them—at every appearance of the paper for to overlook it once might mean the missing of the very articles they are looking for. Economical shopping is easy, if you know how; but if you are a dervish in the sea of shopping the paper will tow you to a safe port.

The paper guides you to the ways of economical shopping; economy lifts you to greater affluence, and affluence brings contentment and happiness.

Be a shopper—not a spender

A Patriotic Republican

Representative Doremus of Michigan introduced last evening Mr. Raphael Herman to me as a curiosity I said, "In what way, he is a splendid looking fellow?" Mr. Herman answered, "Well, I am a Republican and a protectionist, and yet I have the courage and temerity to assert that times are good and business is generally very much improving."

I asked him in what particular line he was engaged, and he said that he was engaged in the manufacture of attachments and connections used in the manufacture of engines and boilers. "Well," said I, "it may be that is the condition in your particular part of the country"—he came from Detroit. He said, "No, sir; the best business I have is in the city of Philadelphia."

Oh, that some phone might carry this to the ears of Oliver and Penrose, telling them that general conditions are infinitely better than they have been.—Senator James E. Martine, in the Senate of the United States.

Republicans Join Hands

The House Republicans voted unanimously for the trade commission bill. Fifty-seven Republicans and Progressives balloted for the Clayton anti-trust bill. Of the entire House membership, only twelve members were recorded against the Rayburn "water stock" bill, giving the Interstate Commerce Commission power to regulate stock and bond issues. Thirty-six Republicans and Progressives supported the currency bill. Of the 154 Republicans and Progressives in the House, only 104 went on record against adopting the conference report upon the Underwood tariff.

Bumper crops? You bet! The railroads can't get cars enough to move the bumps.

POOR FIRE PROTECTION

A guest at a popular mountain hotel this summer was the subject of a good deal of amusement, when the fact leaked out that he kept in his trunk a knotted rope for safe exit from his room in case of fire. Guests off for an outing are often at a loss for things to talk about. This provided amusement to the gossips for several days.

Considering the kind of protection against fire furnished by many popular summer hotels, the man who fortifies himself in their upper stories with a rope really shows some sense. Perhaps the laugh is on the rest of the people, who venture into all kinds of lofty accommodations with poor fire escapes or none at all.

The average summer hotel is a flimsy affair. It is up against the proposition of making dividends in two months when money is lying idle the other ten. But no such excuse for lack of proper equipment exists in the case of city hotels that run the year around.

The average number of hotel fires in the United States is shown by the latest insurance statistics to be about 50 per month. A great many of these fires are accompanied with loss of life.

When a countryman used to go on his travels, he was very apt to object to being placed above the third floor. Such caution is regarded now as a sign of rustic habits. Yet the insurance authority that prepared the statistics quoted above says that 99 per cent. of the hotels have unsafe features in their construction. The countryman may show some judgment after all.

The public usually gets what it demands. Many people want luxury in a hotel, large rooms, handsome rugs, lavish supplies, many times as much as they can eat on the tables. As long as the traveling public demands that kind of service, the landlords will be apt to economize on the number and security of their fire escapes, concerning which few people make inquiry.

HOW TO CHECK REPUBLICAN AND PROGRESSIVE TARIFF TWADDLE

"When you hear the Republican and Progressive orators attack the Democratic tariff law on the stump this year, just remember that the platforms of both these organizations also promised tariff reform. No more effective way in which to halt the flow of eloquence on the part of any of these gentlemen can be found than to ask them to specify just what reductions they would say should have been made. The Democratic law was a serious, well-balanced effort to accomplish an end that nine out of ten voters have favored for years. It really reduced the tariff, and that is what is bothering the opposition critics."

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

$17,000 A MILE IS COST OF NEW BIGELOW ROADS

Political Highway Commissioner Awards Fat Contracts For Thirteen Miles.

Harrisburg, July 21.—Under the contracts Bigelow gave out today the people are going to pay about $1.89 a square yard for the roads represented in the seven awards. This is more than a city pays for sheet asphalt, unless it is a city which doesn't care how much it pays. Here in Harrisburg sheet asphalt paying at $1.89 would bring a howl from the taxpayers, who pay direct for paving in front of their properties. This city has seldom paid as high as $1.75 for sheet asphalt and has got much of it at $1.60 or lower. Contractors say that throughout the State the average for sheet asphalt for street paving will range from $1.60 to $1.80.

This disadvantageous comparison holds good in a brick road, two miles long, which is to be built in Blossburg, Tioga County. The contract price is $60,314.90, which brings the price to about $3.20 a square yard. Municipalities usually get a bid offer from $2.20 to $2.50 for brick paving, and contractors regard $3.00 a square yard as a fat contract.

The figures on which Bigelow awarded contracts today should be particularly encouraging to the counties wherein the roads are to be built, for all of these roads are State-aid highways, half the cost of which is borne by the county and the borough or township.—Philadelphia North American.

The Democratic party was the only party that officially and publicly opposed Bigelow's $50,000,000 political highway bond scheme. The Democratic party will end Bigelowism.

"Generally debilitated for years. Had sick headache, lacked ambition, was worn out and all run down. Burdock Blood Bitters made me a well woman."—Mrs. Chas. Freitoy, Moosup, Conn.—Adv.

WHISPER THIS TO REPUBLICANS

It is difficult to grasp the full meaning of the figures published by the Federal Department of Agriculture on the crop profits of the present year.

Of the thirty-eight million persons engaged in gainful occupations in the entire country, as reported in the last census, twelve millions, or nearly one-third, are at work on the farms.

Fancy the increased ability to buy commodities that unprecedented harvests will bring to these millions! And when they begin to buy all the wheels of industry and trade are set in motion. The entire economic structure from the bottom up is lifted.

And as to money values—it is likely that this year's crops will be worth at least $10,000,000,000. Alongside such a sum the $82,000,000 gold exported to Europe since the beginning of the year looks like "loose change."—New York Herald.

THE PLAYGROUND MOVEMENT

Up to a few years ago, it never occurred to the older people that Young America needs a place to play in. It was commonly supposed that a live boy would find plenty of amusement in selling newspapers, running errands, or hoeing the back yard garden. If he must have his game of ball once in a while, there was the street or some one's vacant lot.

As a matter of fact it often happened, even in the country town, that there was no place where a set of boys could play a game of ball without being ordered to quit.

Most American towns were laid out with no provision for the children. There was ample foresight for anything in which money could be made. Railroads and factories never lacked opportunities. Land was often given to attract them. But the cases where land was given where young people could play their games freely, and work off superfluous and threatening energy, were rarely seen.

In the larger cities the modern playground, with a tangle of yelling kiddies, is a sight to do a wholesome hearted person good. The boy who is chasing a baseball is not robbing fruit nor standing on the street corner smoking cigarettes.

A playground entertaining a large crowd of children does not fully serve its mission unless carefully supervised by some competent person. The average boy gets altogether too much fun from tormenting some one under his size. Also the average crowd of 12 year olds is very far from ready for self-government.

But even if a neighborhood or a village can merely open up a vacant lot and turn the youngsters loose, the results are worth while. In that case the parents will occasionally have to intervene to make Young America "salute the flag."

THE FREEDOM OF TRAVEL

Any man who makes a study of the newspaper personal columns during the summer must feel that the American people are doing an enormous amount of traveling.

It is not merely that the millionaires are on the go, flitting hither and you to kill ennui, anxious to be somewhere where they are not. Even the little country town shows that simple hearted people of very moderate means are visiting here and there and taking long journeys.

The type of person who used to stick closely at home year after year has almost disappeared. A generation ago it was common to see old timers who boasted that they had not slept outside their own houses for 10, 20 or 30 years. The inertia that settled over them was appalling. It seemed an unsettling and revolutionary effect for them to pack a little grip and go over to the next town to spend a week-end with a relative.

Of all the modern ways of spending money on things not strictly necessities, traveling probably brings the largest returns of intelligence. Narrowness is a result of hearing only one point of view. The moment a fellow stirs around and gets into another state and another section, he begins to see that his home folks are not the only guardians of wisdom. He learns that there are other points of view and some of them are good ones.

The benefits derived from travel differ greatly. Some people on their return can talk of little save of the food they got at the hotels and the comfort or discomfort provided by the railroads. To others every tree in the fields, every building, every person met, suggests subtle and interesting differences from the scenery, the manners, and the customs of the home environment. Such persons also get a great many good business suggestions. The farmer finds an object lesson in every field, and the merchant a selling idea in every street.

Think twice, speak once, and you will become wise among men.

The buzzards are soaring over Europe.

Private postage costs about 75c per pound while magazine postage costs 1c per pound. That is, your letters on which you place a 2c stamp costs about 75 times as much to have the government carry as it costs to have an equal amount of magazines. On the latter two-cent postage the government clears about $70,000,000. On the same amount in weight of magazines the government loses about $70,000,000.

Down in Philadelphia is a large publisher who receives about $50,000 of a privilege from the government for he sends 700,000 pounds of mail each year at a cost of one cent a pound for which the government pays 8c a pound to deliver. The government hands over to this publisher 7c a pound as a subsidy or $49,000. Why not stop that subsidy by giving this privilege to all the people in the form of one-cent postage?

SAFETY ON THE STATE ROAD

The state highway or the Lincoln Way is not the safe place is used to be. Automobile traffic is supplanting the horse and buggy and a rapid rate of travel with a heavier vehicle makes danger more imminent. The easy glide of the machine, and its rapid advance makes it dangerous for all kinds of travel not only for pedestrians and vehicles drawn by horses but for automobiles too. Sharp curves are extremely dangerous for all. The public should be guided by this advice. A careful vigilance and a slackened speed is absolutely necessary and the recognition of the universal rule of keeping to the right in all instances. It is surprising to know how many people are entirely ignorant on this rule of street etiquette.

A Plea For the Horse

Every horse will work better and longer if given three ample meals daily, plenty of pure water, proper shoes, sharpened in slippery weather; a blanket in cold weather, a stall 6x9 or enough room to lie down; a fly net in summer; two weeks vacation each year.

WHAT IS PENROSEISM?

Penroseism is the type of politics and government that necessarily grows out of the alliance between corrupt politics and corrupt business; between selfish politicians and privilege seeking special interests.

It is not alone a system of bossism, bossism is only one manifestation of Penroseism. The boss procures and holds his power from the fact that the selfish special interests can more easily do business and secure favors from one powerful man than from many. They contribute, therefore, to his success in order that he may, in turn, help them to secure their special privileges.

But aside from this evil of bossism, the fruits of Penroseism are many. Among the first and plainest is extravagance. In order not to drain their own treasuries too seriously, the forces of special privilege induce political leaders to drain the treasury of the people's government, in order to pay obligations incurred by the interests to faithless representatives of the people and to constituencies that permit selfish interests to control their representatives. In our own state this evil is clearly seen in the enormous growth in the expense of running the state government, which has quadrupled in twenty-five years, in the constantly increasing force of state office holders in all parts of the Commonwealth, in the lavish and lawless appropriation of state funds for private purposes; in the use of the powers of the state government to further personal ends, as in the location of state highways and the improvement only of those that serve powerful politicians.

Another result of Penroseism is the inefficiency with which the state's work is done, both at Harrisburg and elsewhere, and still another is the shameful way in which the state's money is squandered and stolen in great public undertakings, like the capitol building, the state hospitals and the highway scandal.

Another fruit of Penroseism is the stupid and obstinate failure of the gang-controlled legislature to enact reforms, long promised for the protection of workmen, women and children; for the effective control of public utilities; for the equitable taxation of individuals and corporations; and for the safeguarding of the ballot and the purifying of elections.

Hand in hand with these evils of the system of Penroseism goes the further fact that in order to maintain itself and to serve its masters, the special interests, the dominant organization must accept and pay for the support of the worst elements of the state's citizenship, the depraved and vicious classes. This furnishes the last link in the chain by which the Republican machine, under Penroseism, has allied itself on the one hand with the wealth which breeds and supports corrupt politics, and on the other with the ignorance and greed that makes it possible and successful.

This is Penroseism, a combination of bossism, special privilege, ignorance and corruption. It is little wonder that its end is near.

St. James' Episcopal Church

Ninth Sunday after Trinity. The services at this church for August and September are as follows. 8 a. m., third Sunday in the month, Holy Communion, 11 a. m., first Sunday in the month, Holy Communion and sermon. All other Sundays. Morning prayer and sermon. Sunday, August 9, subject of sermon Four Saints of the Episcopal Church. St. John, first Bishop of Ephesus, Apostle of Christ and first link in the chain of Apostolic Succession of the Episcopal Church (See Encyclopedia Britannica). St. Ireneus, Disciple of St. Polycarp, first Bishop of Smyrna who carried the creeds, usages and customs of the Episcopal Church into Gaul (France) and became second Bishop of Lyons. (See Eusebius' Ecclesiastical History.) St. Patrick, Apostle of Ireland, who carried the Apostolic Creeds, usages and customs of Ephesus from Gaul to Ireland (See Bannock's Ancient Irish Drama's History of Ireland, Todd's History of Ireland, etc.) St. Ardan Christianizer of the English, who carried the creeds, usages and customs of St. John from Iona to England. (See Green's History of the English people, Doane's Celtic Christianity, etc., etc.) Are not these Saints that any church may glory in? Come and judge for yourselves. Look out for the coming mission at St. James' Church. Particulars will be announced later.

Reverse Not True.

Scott—"A man may be so effusively pleasant with everybody that he becomes a nuisance." Mott—"True. But a man who endeavors habitually to make himself a nuisance never succeeds by any accident in being pleasant."

No Need to Add to It.

If we could read the secret history of our enemies, we should find in each man's life sorrow and suffering enough to disarm all hostility.—Longfellow

Cling to Eastern Customs.

Although a railway now connects Damascus with Beirut, it has introduced no great change in the customs of the natives and their mode of living. The streets in the newer quarters are fairly broad and clean, but the older streets, while broad enough, are dirty, and the houses dilapidated.

Greeley's Religion.

Horace Greeley was a Universalist in religion and was a regular attendant at the "Church of the Divine Paternity," of which the famous Dr. E. H. Chapin was minister. Greeley died in 1872, at the age of sixty-one, broken-hearted over his wife's death and his political discomfiture.

Mohammedans in London.

There are nearly 2,000 Mohammedans resident in London, the majority, of course, being natives of India, who are merchants or law students, though some are Britons and it is intended to erect a new and splendid mosque, modeled on that of Delhi, which will cost not less than $500,000.

Pity the Hancient Britons.

Quack Medicine Vender—Here you are, gents, sixpence a bottle. Founded on the researches of modern science. Where should we be without science? Look at the hancient Britons. They hadn't got no science, and where are they? Dead and buried, every one of 'em.—Punch.

Doctor or Undertaker.

Upon meeting a rather sour-faced woman in the car the other day, the pleasant faced young man said cheerily: "Good morning! How are you today?" "Not so well," was the reply. "I have rheumatism and an awful cold, my right arm is dreadfully swollen, and there's a—ra—" but the young man fled, probably to get an ambulance.

Unfortunate Transaction.

"What became of that fellow Tweedley?" "Oh, he opened a shop." "Doing well?" "No—doing time. He was caught in the act."

Walnut Grove Campmeeting

Evangelist C. S. Nonemaker will begin evangelistic services in tent No. 16, Monday, August 10. He has planned a campaign which from start to finish will have but one purpose, the saving of souls. All Christians are urged to co-operate. While the camp is held under the auspices of the Churches of God, ministers of the Methodist, Primitive Methodist, Protestant, United Brethren and various other religious bodies will help. A great prayer meeting is planned for Thursday, August 13, at 8 p. m. Regular camp opens Friday, August 14, closes Sunday, August 23. W. C. T. U. day August 20; Memorial day August 22.

The agents of the camp are restaurant, E. R. Wible; boarding house, J. C. Cromwell, photographer, I. Hockenberry; barber, H. C. Long; oil and motor gasoline, J. S. Reihart; feed and stables, J. M. Anderson. Mr. Anderson will also run the camp hack to and from Three Springs and will be ready to accommodate the public with the very best service. A table for fancy work will be open at the General Manager's tent. The camp charges no admission. It derives all its revenues from rents and gifts. It pays no salary or dividends. Every cent is used economically to pay expenses.

Furnished rooms and lodging can be secured from Rev. F. W. McGuire whose address after August 8th will be Maddyville and who can be found during camp at the General Manager's tent. All Christians and orderly people are invited to the camp meeting.

Cessna

August 5—Mr. and Mrs. William Hoagland of Johnstown were seen in our town on Sunday.

Miss Salinda Moses of Osterburg spent a few days here recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wisegarver of Hyndman were pleasant callers at the former's home on Sunday.

Mrs. Bertha Bittinger and daughter Mary of Bedford visited Mrs. Bittinger's parents on Sunday.

Miss Ruth Malone of Altoona is spending some time at the home of Wilson Hissong.

Don't forget the Grangers' picnic in Troutman's Grove on Saturday, August 8.

There are a few things we people in the country would like to know. First: What has become of Bedford's Good Roads Association? The Cambria County Good Roads Association has been very busy and have got the promise of Mr. Bigelow to repair the roads and to push the building of new roads from Johnstown to Somerset and other places at the earliest possible time. While we have no faith at all in Mr. Bigelow's promises, at the same time agitation is a great factor in getting those things started.

Bigelow has promised everything and done nothing. We cannot get a dangerous bridge repaired and more safe. The bridge at William E. Heltzel's store here, at Cessna is in dangerous condition, and has been for over a year. It is now patched in such shape that if a horse steps on certain parts he would go through. The highway department has been notified repeatedly about this place.

There are lots of other places in this county that are a disgrace to the community, and when we think of the millions that have been fooled away, grafted by the McNichols in 10% and 15% profit contracts, it makes us "hot under the collar." Where is Bedford's Good Roads Association, the representative citizens who were going to push things? I have heard it died a political death. Where is the Bedford Merchants' Association? They tell me it died of pecuniary diseases without accomplishing anything. If the Bedford merchants want to combat the mail order houses they must go after the people the same as the mail order houses do. To just organize and get a lot of free advertising won't bring the trade.

But to get back to the highway department. This should be the most popular department in the State and it is the most condemned. And a vote for Brumbaugh is a vote for Bigelow. Will there be enough gulls to carry him and his extravagant work through? Robin.

Osterburg

August 4—Mr. and Mrs. George Smally and daughter Miss Almata and Mr. and Mrs. John Smally of Mt. Union were guests of Mrs. J. S. Bowser and Mrs. J. H. Martin recently. Mr. and Mrs. David Potter are spending the week with friends at Waterside.

Rev. J. H. Zinn has returned home after spending the week at Somerset and other points.

Mrs. Sarah Whetstone is visiting friends in and around Waterside.

John Fant of Fishertown was in the burg on business recently.

Leslie Berkheimer, R. Blattenberger and T. Russell of Fishertown registered at Hotel Martin on Monday.

Miss Anna Moses was called to Schellsburg early Monday morning to care for a patient.

Mrs. Josiah Crissman and son Alton spent a day in Altoona not long since.

Quite a number of our people attended the Sunday School picnic at King last Saturday.

GOOSE IS PROFITABLE FOWL

Subject of Golden Egg Fable Really Brings Money to Farmer's Pocket—Needs Little Shelter.

There is no fowl that can be raised on the farm more profitably than the goose, says N. L. Harris, superintendent of the poultry farm of the Kansas State Agricultural college. The goose needs little shelter, and no more care and attention than any of the other fowls of the barnyard, he argues.

Some of its other advantages are that it is seldom subject to disease, it is louse and mite proof, and hawks rarely prey upon young goslings.

The eggs may be hatched under hens, but the goslings should be taken away immediately. They can be brooded for a short time in the outside brooders, but after that they should be confined in the house at night.

Geese live to great age, some having been known to live for fifty years. The males may be used for six or seven years, and the females are profitable up to ten or twelve years of age.

The young geese will lay twelve to eighteen eggs a season, and the old ones can be counted on for from twenty to thirty.

"The Emden and Toulouse geese are the best for Kansas," continued Mr. Harris. "A large number of them are raised in the southeastern part of the state."

"It is an erroneous idea to think that you need a pond or stream in order to raise geese," Mr. Harris declares. "With the exception of plenty of water to drink, the geese need no water."

HOUSES FOR THE BEGINNERS

Small Coop Illustrated Which Can Be Attached to Outbuilding—Scratching Shed Also Shown.

The two illustrations given show designs for poultry houses that should appeal to all beginners. Fig. 1 gives a small house that will do well for the city lot, says Farm Journal. It can be attached to the barn or any outbuilding. This is the style of house used by Tom Purple, Birmingham, N. Y., who sends the drawing and the following letter:

"I am sending you by this mail something that I feel sure will be to the point for the 'small acre' man who wants to keep a few chickens of two breeds. I had perfect success with my chicks this year, and being determined to keep them, had to invent something that would cover only so many square feet on my father-in-law's lot, as there were no accommodations at home for them. The two-story affair is something new around here, and by using the straw and leaves for furnishing the exercise necessary for good development, I have had rare results—exceptional results. Fed in small feeding boxes in the morning and scatter some grain through trash to make them work. The same at the other feedings."

Fig. 2 shows a hen house to which a scratching shed is attached. The house is about a foot above the ground, and has a board floor. By means of a small opening the fowls can get to the scratching shed, which is protected in front by wire netting. The floor of the scratching shed is earth. This style of house can be built any size desired.

By eating decayed vegetables, etc., fowls introduce into their bodies the eggs of worms. If it is found that fowls are suffering from worms, give a small dose of turpentine made into bread pills. If they haven't worms, this will not hurt them. Give a dose of oil a few hours after giving the turpentine.

Under the Circumstances,—Naturally

PENROSE, CROW AND COMPANY.

Senator Boies Penrose made the logical selection for Chairman of his Campaign Committee when he chose Senator William E. Crow, of Fayette county. Nothing else, except the candidacy of Senator Penrose himself, can draw a line sharper between the progressive forces of the State and the reactionary influences that dominate the Republican party, than the choice of Crow to manage the Penrose-Brumbaugh campaign.

Crow, McNichol and Vane, of Philadelphia; Kline, of Allegheny, and Snyder, of Schuylkill, dominated the State Senate at the last session. No important proposition was considered without their consent, no measure was passed without their approval, and no progressive bill was defeated without their co-operation.

Crow was the actual representative on the floor of the Senate of the predatory interests of his own district and of the whole state. He was the spokesman of the privileged corporations of the liquor interests and of the railroads. He opposed every progressive reform, approved every snake bill, and personally succeeded in defeating the Workmen's Compensation and Child Labor legislation and mutilating the Public Service Commission Bill and the Woman's Labor Bill.

He voted to confirm Highway Commissioner Bigelow; he voted against Woman Suffrage; against compelling McNichol's Elections Committee to place the State wide primary bill before the senate for action; against compelling Snyder's Judiciary Special Committee to report the constitutional convention bill for action; against local option; against the initiative and referendum for second and third class cities; against striking from the gang primary bill provision to deprive independents of nominating rights; against striking from gang primary bill provision to prohibit fusion; against inserting in gang primary bill provision prohibiting assistance to voters except for physical disability; against inserting in gang primary bill provision requiring prison sentences for election crooks; against Workmen's Compensation bill; against the Pure Food bill, and against the pure soft drink bill. He voted for the Sheatz tory "vest pocket" ballot bill; he voted for the McNichol bill to deprive independents of nominating rights; he voted to cripple the child labor bill; he voted to cripple the woman labor bill, he voted for the Roney fire marshal bill, to give the gang control of all firemen in the state, he voted to give Tenor's Panama-Pacific, Toy Ride Commission $450,000 instead of the $300,000 granted by the House, he voted for the Kline liquor bill, which would require judges to give writ reasons for refusing liquor licenses and giving liquor men the right of appeal to higher courts, thereby practically preventing the reduction in the number of licenses.

If Senator Penrose had searched the state for a man entirely out of sympathy with every progressive demand of the times, a man peculiarly the enemy of the interests of labor, of decent politics and of justice, a man especially in league with the liquor interests of the state, he could not have found one more completely qualified than Senator Crow.

Yet this is the man who is managing not only Senator Penrose's campaign for re-election, but the campaign also of Dr. Brumbaugh as a candidate for Governor. Can it be that the independent citizens of the state will be deluded into believing that Brumbaugh is a free, fearless and independent candidate, and would be a free, fearless and independent Governor, when he appears before the people of the state under the auspices and with the enthusiastic support of all those influences typified by his campaign manager, Senator Crow?

NEWS NOTES

Philadelphia, Pa., July 24. Active work in preparation for the campaign has been begun both by the Democratic City Committee and the newly-organized Palmer-McCormick League, a body of citizens who have determined to largely increase the Democratic registration and enrollment, and to carry the campaign into the strongholds of the Republican organization and the independent voting strength in this city. A plan for organizing Palmer-McCormick leagues in every county of the state, to co-operate with the local state organizations for the purpose of rolling up a large vote for the Democratic ticket, has been given serious consideration.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 25. In an interview given out in this city upon his return from conferences with up-state leaders, State Chairman Roland S. Morris declared that reports everywhere, based on canvasses made by party workers, indicated that Congressman Palmer leads in the senatorial race. The average poll taken in widely-separated districts shows Palmer 5, Pinchot 3 and Penrose 2 out of every 10 voters who expressed their preference. Chairman Morris said that one of the interesting features of the campaign was the continued interest shown by voters everywhere, in spite of the long primary campaign.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 25. At a dinner here tonight, given by County Chairman John A. Martin to the ward and district chairman and state committeemen of Allegheny county, the greatest enthusiasm was shown and reports of surprising Democratic gains in all parts of the county were presented. The indications are that the vote for Palmer and McCormick will be the largest ever cast for Democratic candidates in this county, while it is confidently expected that a break will be made in the solid Republican congressional delegation to Congress and the Legislature.

Chambersburg, Pa., July 20. Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan, who came to this city to deliver two Chautauqua addresses, was given a constant ovation from the time he entered the state until he left. Men of all parties joined in the tribute. At a reception tendered by the Progressive Democratic League of Franklin county Secretary Bryan urged progressive men of all parties to support the progressive Democratic candidates, Palmer for the Senate, McCormick for the Governorship, and the whole State ticket.

Harrisburg, Pa., July 20. At a meeting of the Executive and Legislative Committee of the State Grange resolutions were adopted calling upon all political committees to submit statements of their receipts and expenditures during the primary campaign. It is understood that the resolution referred especially to the Penrose Protective Union, which has not yet filed a statement of its expenditures of several hundred thousand dollars.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 20. The North Side Democratic Club, of Pittsburgh, was organized here tonight at a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting, which was addressed by J. B. McGinnis and local candidates for Congress and the Legislature. The club starts with a charter membership of more than two hundred.

WHO IS THIS MAN VANCE M'CORMICK?

By J. Horace McFarland, President American Civic Association.

PART II.

Following Mr. McCormick's inauguration as Mayor of Harrisburg, things began to happen right away, and they happened right along. There was a man in the mayor's office who knew all about sticking to a thing when he believed it to be right. He was courteous to everybody, for he is naturally a good mixer, but positive in his views. The man who was in honest opposition to him found a reason. The man who was trying to put something over found trouble.

The city jumped in every respect. By reason of the movement in which Mr. McCormick had so large a part, there was going on at one time, instead of piecemeal, the building of the filtration plant, the working out of a park system, the paving of the streets, and a revision of the sewers. Mr. McCormick held these various things in inter-relation with each other. He stepped across currents and interferences. Always he kept his ear open for facts, and his hand ready for action. He was not then, and never has been since, to my knowledge, much of a "next week" man. Today is his time, and he has always had time to do something today, if it needed to be done, and it was ready to be done.

Mr. McCormick had had experience in city councils before he became mayor. He knew the members of the councils, and most of them respected him. The rest feared him, because of his determination, his smile and his horribly heavy hand. He got along mightily well with councils. However, because he never asked them to do anything that was not right, and the councilmen all wanted to do right, anyway.

During his term there came a time when it was practicable to make a new bargain with the local trolley company. Mr. McCormick met it on fair lines, fighting it out single-handed and alone, because in this council were not at first with him. He won, and later the trolley company came to see that they won also, because they got a fair bargain and had a definite and proper relation to the city, the use of whose streets was the chief item of their good will.

Public order became a fact instead of a dream during Mr. McCormick's term. The city was cleaned up. It is a curious part of Mr. McCormick's personality that those who come in contact with his heavy hand seem to cherish no resentment against him. I rode with him once in a carriage during a public convention, when the streets were lined with people. Mr. McCormick pointed out various men with whom he had had that kind of contact which occurs in the police court. "There's Tom Smith," he said, pointing to a burly negro. "I had to send him up for sixty days." Smith was shouting "Hurrah for the mayor!" at the top of his voice. Why did he do it?

After his term as mayor had expired, Mr. McCormick did not withdraw into either a shell of business or the self-sufficiency of duty done. He kept right on the job of helping Harrisburg. As president of the Municipal League he was connected with everything that went on from the standpoint of expert efficiency, and it has been the habit in Harrisburg to get expert advice in order to obtain efficiency from the very beginning of the movement of 1901. So, constantly and regularly, Harrisburg has felt the vigor, the fairness, and the fighting ability of Vance McCormick.

Just about two years ago there was an electric light readjustment in sight. Something was to be "put over," and apparently everything was smooth for the job. Mr. McCormick put the Municipal League into the game, helped to raise and contributed a large part himself of a fund with which to hire an expensive expert, looked personally into the details, insisted on a good bargain for the city, and eventually got it, so that while the new electric light company was and is well satisfied with its bargain, the city saves something like $25,000 a year. Many of the poles came down, and modern justice of electrical handling has come about.

Now I do not know that these words will help any one else to know Mr. McCormick. I hope they will help some people to know who he is by what he has done. Although I am not a Democrat, I should like tremendously to see him Governor of Pennsylvania, because I believe the application of the same sort of methods that caused things to happen in Harrisburg would almost undoubtedly cause other and even pleasanter things to happen in Pennsylvania.

Straw Vote Favors Palmer.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 23. The first straw vote reported during the present state campaign was taken at a meeting of the Bala Golf Club, in Philadelphia, last week. At a supper given by the members of the club to their friends a discussion arose as to the United States Senatorship, and to settle it a vote of the sixty-two men present was taken. They were all qualified voters in Pennsylvania, and the result stood as follows: Palmer 42 Penrose 12 Pinchot 8

TEMPERANCE NOTES

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

MILK IN PLACE OF BEER.

Milk bottles instead of beer bottles reign supreme at luncheon in the Pullman car factories. Two peddlers at the main gate, which is but one of the seven entrances, sell nearly half a thousand bottles of milk each noon.

Exclusion of demoralizing influences being part of the original paternalistic regime, no saloons, with but one exception, were allowed in the town. Liquor interests seized upon the nearest available spot and 30 grog shops soon clustered at Kensington, just across the railroad tracks and south of Pullman. This place quickly merited the name of "Bumtown," which still clings to it.

"Few things," writes Prof. Graham Taylor in the Survey, "are more striking to the observer who watches the swarms of men at the main gate during the noon hour, than the absence of beer cans and the prevalence of milk bottles. Bumtown, however, lives up to its old reputation and boasts of 52 saloons, 25 of which are on the single block nearest to Pullman."

MODERATE-DRINKER TO BLAME.

We maintain, not as radical reformers or as prejudiced prohibitionists, but merely as fairly intelligent observers, that the example of the moderate drinker is far more dangerous than that of the habitual drunkard. Just as the "respectable" saloon is far more dangerous than the basement dive. What young man ever takes his first glass with the intention of becoming like the reeling, degraded sot he passes in the street with disgust? Or like the pitiful wreck of humanity seeking to regain his lost manhood in an inebriate asylum? No, he intends to be like his friend, Mr. A., that pattern of morality and sobriety, a leader in business and social circles, a pillar in the church, a moderate drinker. "If Mr. A. can stop when he wants to, so can I," argues some mother's boy, and—but we all know the old, old story only too well.

NO LONGER A "FANATICAL" IDEA.

Rev. Charles M. Sheldon of Topeka, Kans., preacher, author, sociologist, police commissioner—perhaps best known to the world as "In His Steps" Sheldon—speaking of a recent lecture tour said: "When I spoke in Chicago of the prospect that saloons would be swept from the city within the life time of nearly every one present the applause was prolonged. Everywhere I go, even in Wisconsin where the consumption of liquor is 64 gallons per capita, I find the same quick response to the statement."

And everywhere temperance speakers and workers are finding the people ready for the final onslaught upon the liquor traffic as the enemy not only of the town and the city but of the nation. "A saloonless nation in 1920" does not seem so improbable a goal today as it did to some of them in 1911.

GOING UP AND GOING DOWN.

Two men, one well dressed and the other seedy and wobbling, walked along the street. A third man asked a fourth: "What makes the difference between those two men?" and got this reply: "One patronizes dry goods and grocery stores, and the other patronizes saloons." That was explanation sufficient, but this may be added: "The seedy man is well educated and his wife a college graduate, while the well dressed man has little education but gets value in return for his money. Saloons make difference enough in two men, one going up and the other going down."

INTERESTING FIGURES.

To those who say that to abolish the liquor traffic will throw men out of work, it should be shown that the number of those thrown out of work from inebriety is much larger. The number of men in Massachusetts in the liquor traffic in 1905 was 6,954; the number of arrests for drunkenness was 73,972—67,468 males and 6,504 females. Some of those, of course, were repeaters, but the aggregate number of those thrown out of work through inebriety is several times the number of men employed in the liquor business.

KANSAS PRINCIPLES IN MISSOURI.

The Willis Wood theater, which was recently opened in Kansas City, Mo., was christened with White Rock mineral water instead of champagne. This happened not because things are usually done that way in Missouri, but because Kansas teachings had taken so firm a hold on the manager, a citizen from the latter state, that he still did things the Kansas way despite the example of his adopted state.

SELF-PRESERVATION.

This is the question, beginning with the individual: If prohibition of spirits in his life and work are absolutely necessary, does the same thing hold good in the community, in society, in business circles everywhere? If prohibition can be made practical in a town or city, and show a profit and gain in every relation, why cannot this be extended and applied to every form of human activity? There is no theory or idealism in this. —Dr. T. D. Crothers.

Amortization Tables For Use of Long-Time Borrowers There are three ways of paying off borrowed money:

(1) The borrower pays the interest annually or semiannually, and at the expiration of the loan pays the full amount of the principal.

(2) The borrower pays the interest annually or semiannually, and at different periods in addition pays off a portion of the principal.

(3) The borrower pays a fixed sum annually, and this payment includes interest and also a sum which goes to reduce the principal.

This last method is called amortization, and the sum paid annually by the borrower is such as to meet all interest charges and wipe out the debt at the end of its term. The advantages of this method are that the debt is discharged by easy regular payments, and the borrower is not called upon in any one year to raise a considerable sum of money to discharge the capital of his debt. Under this system he must set aside from each year's profits or income a proper proportion to meet his indebtedness. This frees him from the temptation of using money that should go toward paying his debt in one year for other purposes, because of an optimistic belief that next year's crops or income will make it easier to pay twice that amount.

Millions of men will go to war and march and sweat and fight all day and call it glory. If put to work in the corn field they would desert at the first round.

HECKERMAN LETTER

An Interesting Communication From Garden Spot of Pennsylvania.

Lancaster, Pa., July 28.—I do not think that I ever wrote you a letter from this city. 'Tis a most beautiful city with many shade trees along its streets; with its streets all either macadamized or paved and not only its streets but its alleys as well.

I am stopping at the Franklin House on North Queen Street and it is next to the Hershey House of Harrisburg in line of feeding. The beds are first-class and 'tis the most home-like hotel that I get to. None of the clerks are hard of hearing or show marks of that terrible disease small-pox. Besides all are as courteous as can be in the office. Well I came here from Litiz late last evening. I asked about the curb market in the square and was told that it was from 4 a. m. until 10 o'clock on Wednesdays and Saturdays. I said, "Call No. 20 at 4." The clerk said, "Is that right?" "Yes, 4 o'clock. I want to be on the square at the market at 4:30. I want some good 'schmeat' kase" and 'apple butter.' He said "All right." I was there on time and had a cup of tough cheese, made without soda. I ate that with a relish. Next I bought a half pint of "schmeat kase" and had three table spoons of apple butter put in the same bowl. I got a spoon and stirred it well together. Oh! what a dish it was—"schmeat kase" and apple butter. Did you ever eat it? If not, do so first chance you get.

I then sauntered through the market. I don't believe I ever saw such fine tomatoes, cucumbers, beans, in fact all vegetables and fruits, in my life. The tomatoes seemed dirt cheap, as did many other items; five and six quite large tomatoes for seven cents; a big cup of the best cheese for five cents, and so on all the way through the market; cantaloupes of the finest look and taste, six cents. The market closed and the boxes and refuse were all cleaned up in the twinkling of an eye and then methinks that all the ladies broke for the two big 5 and 10c stores. They crowded in until every nook and corner was filled with human beings, each struggling for breath and I'll venture to say that one-half of the crowd wore black bonnets and had a cape with two points before as also behind, each point being fastened to the body of the dress, and the dress skirts were wide enough for the wearers to take a full step. No foolishness in this dress.

I saw some extra large peaches on the street and I, of course, asked the price—a dollar and a half a basket. Oh, I only wanted a couple. I picked two of the largest out and gave him a dime. He handed me back a nickel and said, "Are you satisfied?" I said, "Yes." Then he said "I do not want to rob you," and he gave me two cents. Now these two very large peaches cost me three cents. Who ever heard of it? By the way, I was told today that there were many cherries went to waste hereabouts this season. The peach trees, as a rule, are weighed down with fruit, and not only the peach trees but all kinds of fruit will be very abundant again. I'll gamble on it that you never saw such fields of corn and tobacco. The West Virginia farmers were bragging of their prospective corn crops when I was there a few weeks ago. I think that I could see these fields of waving corn and tobacco here in Lancaster County they would open their eyes as big as saucers and with a heavy sigh drop to the ground, muttering unintelligently in Pennsylvania German. Jet Sheets, the oldest and only son of our friend Elie of Washington, has the finest candy parlor in this city. My, the sweets of a thousand kinds that he makes and sells each day. His business keeps half a dozen ladies very busy filling boxes and waiting on customers. "Have a grape." If you will buy Fort Bedford Peanut butter for your family, you will provide for them the best. Dr. Edward Noble lives here and practices his profession among these rich farmers, also the town folks. He has been here five years and has a very nice practice. He does not only have a nice practice but he has a nice wife and little girl. His wife knows how to entertain the patients and thereby hold them while the doctor is out visiting others. He drives a beautiful black pony which seems to have much horse sense, for if he lets the pony stand untied while he is in the house and the pony sees a blade of grass a block away he (the pony) walks carefully up and nips said blade of grass and then returns to the spot where the doctor left him stand. Educated, did-you say?

Tomorrow I want to go to Chambersburg and assist in observing their Old Home Week celebration. Chambersburg, Pa., July 31.—This week was Old Home Week here and Bedford, as far as I know, was represented by Ed. D. Heckerman and his daughter, Miss Fanny. Mr. Clark from the Willows was not here and he must atone to the proper persons for his absence.

This most beautiful town is here in the great Cumberland Valley, a section of the Keystone State; than it there is no more beautiful. The barns are in many cases more beautiful than the houses and the crops are, as a rule, first class. Just fifty years ago the rebel cavalry, under command of General McCausin, visited this town and after being refused their demands for $100,000 in gold, fired the town and then left it in ruins. Bucket brigades were at once formed to fight the raging fire that would leap from one house to its next door neighbor and were ineffective in any and all attempts to extinguish them. Today, however, Chambersburg has risen from the ruins and last week entertained enough firemen to put to route a lot of cavalry such as came here fifty years ago and to think nil of doing so.

Today is firemen's day and I guess it is the biggest event of the Old Home Week celebration, and I hereby prophesy that with the many hundred firemen here from every nook and corner of the Cumberland Valley which extends from Harrisburg, Pa., to Winchester, Va., there would be a slim chance of destroying the town by fire. I think that there are twenty bands here. These have accompanied the firemen from parts of four States. More than two thousand firemen paraded the principal streets of the town. The town was well filled. Crowds began pouring into the town on all the early trains. It was estimated that there were more than twenty thousand strangers in town that day. The weather was perfect. Oh! I forgot to tell you that many of the fire companies brought their own fire fighting apparatus with them. In the evening a band contest was held in Memorial Square and the winning organization will be awarded a prize of $100 in gold. The second prize will be fifty dollars. Tomorrow will be contest day and many of the visitors will engage in drills and other contests. Railroad men will also engage in contests, such as running, etc. The big mummies' parade will take place in the evening and it is estimated that there will be over fifteen hundred in the parade. I wish that I could only stay to see it all. With all their crowds and the fine weather I doubt if the enjoyment for the visitors was as great as when we had Old Home Week at Bedford some years ago. Ask Ed about it all. Yours truly M. P. Heckerman.

Automatic Block Signals

With the completion on September 1st of an elaborate plan of improvements in its automatic block signal system, the Pennsylvania Railroad will have more four-track line operated under automatic signals than any railroad in the world.

At a cost of $6,000,000 the Pennsylvania Railroad has in the past three years equipped 253 miles of its main lines with automatic signals.

On September 1st the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad between Pittsburgh and New York, and Philadelphia and Washington will be equipped with automatic block signals.

The signal system on the Pennsylvania Railroad east of Pittsburgh and Erie represents an estimated investment of approximately $18,000,000. The difficulty in arriving at more than an approximate figure is due to the fact that many changes have been made in the signals from time to time in the past thirty years. The electro-pneumatic interlocking switch and signal system in the New York Station and on the electric line between Sunnyside Yard, L. I., and Manhattan Transfer, N. J., alone cost $1,750,000.

It takes a normal force of 1,800 men to maintain the Pennsylvania's signal system. It costs to keep these signals in order no less than $1,500,000 a year.

Pathologic Aspects of Vagrancy

The acting superintendent of the New York Municipal Lodging-House has made a study of about two thousand vagrants. His examination shows that the immediate cause of vagrancy is not, in the great majority of instances economic, but pathologic. The common impression is that a great many of the vagrants of large cities are men whose advancing years have thrown them out of employment. It was found, on the contrary, that the majority of the men who applied to the New York Municipal Lodging-House were young—indeed, in the very prime of life. Of the two thousand men examined—5 per cent. were under 21, while only 6.85 per cent. were over 60.

It is also generally assumed that the majority of the vagrants are foreigners. There is an idea, too, that a great many of the vagrants in large cities are not city-born, but have been attracted to the centers of population because of the ease with which an unearned livelihood may be obtained there.

The report, however, contradicts all of these a priori impressions. Of the two thousand men examined, only 2 per cent. had been in this country less than three years, while only 9 per cent. had been in New York less than one year. The average time of residence in the metropolis proved to be thirty-two years and four months; as thirty-six was the average age of the men altogether, they had lived practically all of their lives in the city and the superintendent adds that "practically all of these two thousand were our own native sons."

About 35 per cent. of the homeless men who seek the shelter of the municipal lodging-house are unemployed. Twelve per cent. of them showed definite evidences of defective mentality. The infirm from age and those handicapped by the loss of a member represent about as many more. About 10 per cent. are habitual loafers and confirmed beggars, who have lost the habit of work. Sixty-five per cent. are willing and able to work but are hampered partly by lack of skill and partly by the fact that they are victims of the seasonal trades which employ a great many men at certain times of the year and very few at others, leaving men without any definite occupation for months every year.

Alcohol played an important role. About 50 per cent. of these men proved to be excessive drinkers, a fact which is not nearly so significant as the admission of over 30 per cent. that intoxicating liquors were the sole cause of their dependency and wretchedness. When out of work a great many of the men become discouraged and depressed and then are unable to rouse themselves to take up their labor again. The actual study of conditions in New York emphasizes the need for the physician's interest in social problems, says The Journal of the American Medical Association. Vagrancy among us is distinctly an American and not an immigrant problem. It is our own people who need care to prevent the occurrence of social breakdowns that are as serious in their way for the individual and the community as physical breakdowns. This is the day of prevention rather than cure, and knowledge is the best possible element in prevention. Undoubtedly social work in connection with dispensaries can do much to relieve this condition and with the decrease of infectious disease social service becomes the physicians next duty.

Wilsonigrams

Liberty does not consist, my fellow citizens, in mere general declarations of the rights of men. It consists in the translation of those declarations into definite action.

The way to be patriotic in America is not only to love America but to love the duty that lies nearest to our hand and know that in performing it we are serving our country.

It is patriotic to learn what the facts of our national life are and to face them with candor.

We set this Nation up—at any rate, we professed to set it up—to vindicate the rights of men.

I would be ashamed of this flag (Stars and Stripes) if it ever did anything outside America that we would not permit it to do inside of America.

When I have made a promise I try to keep it, and I know of no other rule permissible to a nation.

The Queen Washer

HOW THE QUEEN DOES IT—The four arms of the agitator dolly, with their four wooden hands or spokes, each work twice as much wash as can be done by the human hand; and they do it in boiling hot water. Every bit of wash in the tub is dashed back and forth as long as the lever is worked.

LOOK AT THE QUEEN—Do you know of a better, a more thorough way of working wash than with the Queen? The entire sides and bottom of the tub and centerpiece serve as one large rubbing surface.

The Queen uses four well-known effective principles in washing, namely: Agitation, of the most positive kind. Rubbing, gentle yet effective. Suction, created by the thorough agitation in connection with the centerpiece, and Steam, to bleach and sterilize.

THE CENTERPIECE, which is a special and an important feature of the Queen, not only supplies a very effective rubbing surface, but its presence creates suction, and most important of all, it prevents the wash from getting into the center where there is no agitation at all. This centerpiece takes up very little room and is easily removed for washing carpets, large quilts, etc. For sale by
